UM PROPOSES GRADUATE COURSES FOR KALISPELL-AREA RESIDENTS

MISSOULA --

Kalispell-area residents interested in pursuing a master's degree in business or education may get their chance through a proposed University of Montana program that will offer graduate-level UM courses from the Flathead Valley Community College campus.

Interested citizens can interview for acceptance into the master's programs on Friday, Oct. 8, from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. in rooms 104/106 of the FVCC Student Center Administration Building. Students must apply for and be accepted into the graduate programs before UM can begin offering graduate-level courses from the FVCC campus. To make an appointment for an interview, call Bob Brown or Kathy Hughes at FVCC, 756-3840.

UM's School of Business Administration, School of Education and Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs have joined forces to propose offering graduate-level courses in Kalispell. The courses are intended for students seeking master's degrees in business administration or education, community members interested in professional development, and students who seek business or education courses that can be transferred into another academic program.

Courses would initially be offered on an ad hoc basis; once an audience for the graduate programs is identified, the University will deliver core and elective courses to ensure that students could complete the master's programs in a timely manner.
